Janne Wind, a leading Scandinavian Vocal Coach and Choir Instructor

With 15 years of experience, music degrees in singing, teaching and conducting from both the Rhythmical Music Conservatory and the University of Copenhagen, Janne Wind is one of Scandinavia's leading singers and conductors. She teaches several choirs and ensembles, the most respected being the prize winning "Sound of Gospel" choir with its 95 singers. She is coach and conductor of the musical choir of the yearly Cultural Harbour Festival of Copenhagen with 600 singers. Janne Wind has given concerts all over the world, most recently in London and San Francisco, and has contributed to several TV- and record productions over the years.

Janne Wind teaches students of all ages and levels, from experienced groups and choirs to team building with companies and amateurs, children's choirs to pensioners, professional solo singers to beginners. Her genres are mainly in the rhythmical areas of contemporary music, with gospel, pop and soul being the most common.

With her passionate dedication, intuition and beautiful voice, she is renowned for making each individual singer feeling seen and received, and for moving the energy in both rehearsal and concert so both singers and listeners feel thrilled and fulfilled. Her approach to music and singing is spacious and gentle, fun and quirky, technically and emotionally competent and profound. On top of this she is a dynamic vocalist and powerful lead singer.
